Dungeonary is inspired by the idea of a new world for fantasy roleplaying. The game takes place in a fantasy world that is full of original features like swamps and deserts, but also has a unique world order. The game takes place in the High North, a frozen region of the world. It is an alternative to the temperate zones and is home to fierce creatures such as ice giants, trolls and giants. The world of Dungeonary is an open world with a very dynamic game map where many parts of the world are interactable. There is no linearity in Dungeonary. In fact, some stories or parts of the world are closed until you find the key. It means you can start the game in almost any location, choose your own heroes and fight your way through the story. Dungeonary also contains a detailed save system. Every dungeon in Dungeonary, also known as a crypt, is fully customizable. You have access to all three attributes: Mysteries Creatures Items You can also expect to find many different dungeons that are suitable for beginners and experts alike. Dungeonary is highly replayable, but also offer new and different adventures! Some of the dungeons are quite small, with a maximum of 4 players but the number of levels will increase as the game progresses. What's New in The Grottoes DLC - New world with new dungeons and quests.- More than 250 new items and crafts.- You can begin in any part of the world with the key. This gives you the possibility to start a new game from scratch, and be in the middle of the game before things get really started.- Many improvements and additions were made to the game.- An all-new voice acting from Andrew Nowland is also added. System Requirements • Minimum: OS: Windows 7, Vista, XP • Processor: 2.0 GHz (32-bit) or 2.4 GHz (64-bit) • Memory: 2 GB RAM • Hard Disk: 3 GB • Graphics: OpenGL 1.4 compatible Interact About Fantasy-RPG. Description The Grottoes DLC adds little picturesque grottoes with waterfalls and lakes to all worlds. They are full of vegetation and ancient magic. Grottoes often serve as refuge for hermit elves that have retired from the hustle and bustle of the world. The elves might not be very happy with intruders. "It'

ATROCITIES and ethnic cleansing rarely go hand-in-hand. They are too mutually exclusive things to allow for a comfortable coexistence. This explains the desire of high-ranking Pakistan military officers to ensure the country could have enough blood to drink, as they were demanding much more blood be poured on their country. "May God grant you victory, Father; France enters Lahore, overwhelms India with military might." Said these irresponsible chaps. If anyone was asking them what they meant with "Father," the answer would have been either China or Pakistan. But at the heart of the demand was a veiled threat against India, Pakistan Army's being in Afghanistan and encroaching upon the Indian side of the so-called Line of Control (Lakhanpur border) was unacceptable. Blood, or perhaps, to use the Arabic term, 'Qeemat' required to be there. The Pakistani Army's trusted ally in the Afghan civil war, the Taliban, had called for a jihad as much as Saudis and Egyptians do, but with religiosity and killing more human beings than the Saudis, Indians and Egyptians combined. Truth was, Pakistan had no qualms with Islamic extremism. They would not have been notable for having a license to kill among wide swathes of humanity. It was just that Pakistan enjoyed killing civilians with a much higher rate. But they needed India. They needed their blood. They needed those vials of lancet to be filled to their frothing demands. Taking off the gloves, the Pakistan Army even threatened India to curb the aggressiveness in the Valley. "Look, if India wants to reach the Pakistan border, then Pakistan will be expecting some red flags from all Indian forces to be put down in the ground." "Ghazwa-e-H

Once a player collects 17 or more green markers, they are flashed up as red markers but can still be collected by touching them. If an opponent jumps into a free fall pit or falls into the pit by their own initiative before the gate opens, they lose 3 points and the other player picks up 3 points.
