I want to propose a new photovoltaic power plant to Germany. What is the best way to transport the small photovoltaic panels, as well as all auxiliary equipment? Is there any cheap and simple way to transport it over the long distance? A: In general, there are 2 options: Solution 1: Install the power plants on land and transport the electrical equipment by truck. Solution 2: Install the power plants on ship and transport the electrical equipment by boat. With the first option, you would need to assess the cost for electrical equipment, ground support equipments, land ownership and management. Solution 2 is much cheaper and also has the advantage of allowing you to quickly install the plant in a location where you need it (close to the shore, near population centers, off-grid locations, etc.) The cost of ship construction should be much less than a truck or truck-trailer. e79caf774b
