This is a software utility that automatically finds and loads the required driver. Step 2 - Install the driver. Once you've downloaded a new driver, you "...can simply double-click on it." During the installation process, you may be asked for a username and password to access the network. If you are not using an Internet connection to operate your device, then you probably do not need to enter a password. As you may have guessed, this program will only work for devices that are on your computer.
